Autocalibrator II

Autocalibrator II has in the past been a significant support product for the Crowcon portable product range helping both customers and distributors operate their calibration functions more effectively and efficiently. However with CheckBox now offering a much more flexible support function the number of Autocalibrator II sales has declined and the product is no longer economic to manufacture. In addition its software runs on older Windows™ platforms which themselves are having support withdrawn.

As a result of the above I am announcing the withdrawal from sale of Autocalibrator II Part No. C01552. We will of course endeavour continue to supply spares for the product for a reasonable period of time although there is very little required in normal use as there are no consumable parts.
